Fire Extinguisher Service, of Berlin, has undergone some pretty big changes. Early next year the company will become Holmes Fire and Safety Solutions and will also be expanding services to accommodate increased demand.

Guided by the principles passed down by his father, which include honesty, integrity and faith, owner Allen Yoder has expanded the business to meet the growing fire safety needs of Holmes County—and beyond.

Allen admits there were some challenges after his father, Paul Yoder, passed away.

“There were times when we were barely above water,” Allen said. “But I had people in the community who encouraged me. It took a few years, but we survived and we couldn’t have done it without our supporters. We’re grateful to everyone who gave us a chance. We’re still here, and, now, we’re growing.”

Fire Extinguisher Service has recently expanded to include fire suppression systems for paint booths and commercial kitchens, as well as exit and emergency lighting. Allen’s story is one of faith, community, and a desire to serve.

Allen Yoder's Fire Extinguisher Service has been growing steadily. Early next year the company will undergo a name change that will reflect additional services—and he has you to thank for it.
